The shaded area for each disease indicates its relative prevalence at different times during the growing season.

Actual incidence varies with season and management.